Mohanji's Message

This is a day of remembrance, reconnection, and rejuvenation of the vows of collaboration between the guru and the disciples, marking the liberation from the birth-death cycle that binds souls to the earth through repeated reincarnation.

Jiddu Krishnamoorthy had mentioned that hardly anyone listens to a master clearly, neutrally and unbiased. He mentioned that all people listen as follows..

Listen while entertaining comparisons in mind,
Listen while analysing contradictions,
Listen while evaluating the speaker.
Listen with judgment.

Very few people truly listen without bias or preconceived notions (neutrality) and with a willingness to receive and understand (openness).

When a seeker stops analysis and practice awareness, he comes closer to the truth. Scriptures say God is within us in the form of Aatma or energy. Then why do we need a Guru? While we could know, believe, or accept that God is within us as a principle, it is the Guru that guides us to the all-important experience of it, which is a giant leap towards consciousness. Guru wipes away the ego that stands between man and God.

A message from Acharya Board

Our Acharyas are continuing their outreach activities on the 'Old Age home' and 'Orphanage' themes until the end of September. As Mohanji indicated, depending on the need of the community or the group, the outreach can be targeted to any theme as required. Outreach activities, as part of our daily lives, can happen spontaneously and can facilitate transformation and can create peace and harmony with the interacted individual/group.

We are also happy to share that this month's campaign 'Self Acceptance' has seen the largest influx of participants. Each week, focussing on various aspects of self acceptance is extremely valuable to all members in the group and helps them as a reminder, and to consciously practice it everyday.

Additionally, we have completed the final interview for Apprentice Acharyas in batch-4. All successful trainees are now being moved into the 6 months probation period. They will work alongside our Acharyas in their respective regions and will add value to their communities. Our pool of Acharyas is slowly growing from strength to strength.

The weekly Acharya activities are regularly being captured through the new weekly tracker. The data collected is consolidated and the reports are presented to Mohanji and will be included into our monthly newsletter. Going forward we are looking forward to showcasing the impact of our Acharyas through various reports and visual charts.

Let us practice our daily sadhana for stability and live Mohanji's teachings every day!

With love and light,
Acharya Board

Divine Manifestations and Miracles MCB Nonoti, South Africa

From its very inception, the Mohanji Centre of Benevolence (MCB) Nonoti has stood as a sanctuary where lives are uplifted, hope is restored, and Grace is experienced in the most tangible of ways. What began as a dream has blossomed into a sacred space where devotion, seva, and divine energy meet in profound expressions.

As someone who once carried a sceptic's heart toward physical manifestations, I was left dumbstruck when, during prayer with two others in the temple, we suddenly heard what sounded like falling rain. To our amazement, three pendants of Sathya Sai Baba, along with pink sweets and sacred ashes, appeared on the floor before us. In that instant, I knew we were in the presence of something far greater than our comprehension.

These divine plays continued to unfold. During one gathering, as we offered our love and devotion, the very feet of our beloved BABA were adorned with vibhuti (ashes) and an abundance of cashew sweets. On another blessed occasion, when we presented a heartfelt token of gratitude to a devotee who has selflessly contributed to our seva, BABA showered us with a cascade of cashew sweets—a tender affirmation that our acts of love and service are always seen, acknowledged, and blessed.

Even in moments of playful complaint, the divine humour revealed itself. When we jokingly lamented that our beloved priest was enjoying too many sweets, BABA responded with His unmistakable charm: our welcome lady's lamp became miraculously adorned with yet another bounty of cashew sweets! Laughter filled the air as we recognised this as a sacred reminder that love and joy are also divine expressions. The sacred energy did not stop within the temple alone. Following Aarti, the veranda and even the outside wall became covered with sacred ashes and red powder, silent testimonies of the divine presence pervading every corner of MCB Nonoti.

Amidst these extraordinary manifestations, equally powerful are the miracles that unfold through human lives touched by Grace. One such story is that of a young boy from our local community who was born with fetal alcohol syndrome. His path seemed clouded by limitation, with little hope for proper education. But through the support of MCB, he was clothed in a full school uniform, equipped with supplies, and enrolled into school. To the astonishment of many, this child not only adjusted but excelled—rising as one of the top-performing students in his grade. From “zero to hero,” he received recognition for his achievements, embodying resilience, potential, and the transformative blessings of BABA.

Each of these moments, whether in sacred manifestations or in the blossoming of young lives, reminds us that MCB Nonoti is not just a place, but a living testimony of Grace in action. It is a space where the unseen becomes seen, where miracles quietly unfold, and where the eternal message of love, service, and faith continues to guide every step.

BIMAL NAIR,
MOHANJI ACHARYA

I have been on this blue pearl for 16,968 days when writing this. Why this date? I've been counting birthdays in days ever since Mohanji said we only have a certain number of days to live. Make every day count! That's the effect of having Mohanji in our lives—you change! If you knew me 20 years ago, you'd be surprised I'm the same person. Back then, I was definitely on the path of scorching the earth with earthly pleasures—you name it, I probably did it. Partying was a way of life; a good time was all the time! I'm sure if I had been more responsible, I'd be better off financially now, but no regrets—it was a stage of my life, and I thoroughly enjoyed it.

So, what goes on in my life now? Mostly family time and, of course, work. Simply put, my passion is aviation. From being an instructor to working as an avionics technician and flying as a private pilot—that's what's on my mind all the time! My YouTube algorithm is filled with aeroplanes, comedy, world affairs, and spiritual videos.

Music? I listen to all kinds of genres. I love '80s music, '90s hip hop, and a mix of everything in between. When my wife is around, she takes over the soundwaves, and we always listen to spiritual music—thank goodness for that! I haven't read much, but I've watched a lot. When I did read, it was mostly technical books and National Geographic from cover to cover—no sci-fi! But recently, in the last five years, I've started reading spiritual books, which has been something new for me.

As far as other pleasures go, food is definitely at the top of the charts. The major difference now is that it's mostly vegan, and no spirits to "lighten the mood." Travel and food are the new highs, and spirituality is the experience I truly appreciate!

If I had to define myself in one word, I'd say: laughter. I love making jokes, sometimes at inappropriate times—which makes it even funnier, at least to me! I'm a bit weird and sensible at the same time. I embrace my weirdness; if you're a total normie, we probably don't have much to talk about. Life is full of unexpected experiences, and I love hearing people's stories.

I also enjoy comedic movies, stand-up comedy, and—oddly enough—old Malayalam comedy movies. They just hit differently! Another aspect I truly value is helping people. Whether it's a small gesture of kindness or a conversation that shifts someone's perspective, I want to contribute in any way I can to make someone's life more comfortable or productive. As an instructor, I often get the chance to share what I've learned and pass it on to those who need guidance.

There's a common thread running through all of this: spirituality. It weaves through everything I've shared. From living in India during my childhood, to growing up in the U.S., to meeting my future wife, to being guided in my career, to becoming a father of two girls, and of course, to being led to Mohanji—it's all connected. It's in the background, always present, always aware, no matter what I'm doing. It's here today, and looking back, I realise it's always been there. I play in the ocean of experience that this tradition has created!

Now, if you gave me a free day to do whatever I wanted, I'd get into a small aeroplane and fly around in the big blue sky. That's where everything feels like it fits together. Paying attention to the machine, the airspace, and the beautiful terrain below—the hum of the engine, the vibrations, the wind gliding around the aircraft—it all becomes harmonious, almost blissful. It's a symphony in the air.
